There is one topic, however, belonging to this subject, which seems to have been most culpably neglected. It is the importance of co-operation among teachers, pupils, parents, patrons and all who have an influence in producing the momentous result. That our literary institutions are by no means, what they should be, is the cry of all, and perhaps, the fault of all; though many a censured teacher is doomed, like the scape goat, to bear the sins of the people. Not, however, that I would insinuate such a charge against my former patrons. On the contrary, I must forever acknowledge myself their debtor for the countenance and encouragement, with which they have seconded my feeble exertions; and I am induced to hope, that those who may hereafter confide their children to my tuition, will unite in the ardent wish, that our co-operation may be more complete, more vigorous and more effectual. To facilitate and promote this co-operation, is one design of this pamphlet. You will, therefore, allow me to request, that as far as you may find it convenient, you will acquaint yourselves with the institution which you are so kind as to patronise. If you approve of its object and its regulations; if you are satisfied with the branches, the books and exercises, that here solicit the energies...
